Tim Gionet, also known by his online persona Baked Alaska, has been arrested by the FBI for his role in the Capitol Hill Riot earlier this month.

> Tim Gionet was arrested by federal agents in Houston, Texas, Friday. Charges are knowingly entering or remaining in a restricted building without lawful authority and violent entry and disorderly conduct on Capitol grounds. Gionet livestreamed footage of himself among other Donald Trump supporters inside the seat of American democracy during last week's violent siege. In the video he says: 'We are in the Capitol building, 1776 will commence again'. His arrest on federal charges comes after an arrest warrant was also issued by a Scottsdale judge Thursday saying Gionet had violated conditions of his release. He was out on bail on assault charges accused of pepper-spraying a bar worker.

One of the casualties of the Trump era is the little critical thinking left on the right. Sure, there's always been morons on the right, like Tea Party types or Sarah Palin, but the alt-lite/America First/Amnats take it to a whole new level. You can't storm the center of political power for the lulz and expect anything less than to have the book thrown at you. The one silver lining is the right will become demoralized, which gives sane people and also the left to do things that are populist and supported the majority of people.
